

Master of Education in Teaching and Learning

Program Student Learning Outcomes

Students graduating with a Master of Education in Teaching and Learning will be able to:

- Demonstrate advanced content and pedagogical knowledge for teaching.
- Use research to inform professional practice.
- Explain the relationship between education and social justice.
- Demonstrate leadership skills for the professional context.
- Translate educational theories into culturally responsive practice.