

Master of Science in Clinical Psychology

Program Student Learning Outcomes

Students graduating with a Master of Science in Clinical Psychology will be able to:

- Apply a broad knowledge of contemporary psychology, with special emphasis on clinical psychology or behavior analysis.
- Demonstrate acceptable skills in research analysis (including writing and mastery of APA style).
- Demonstrate competence in basic clinical skills in psychology or behavior analysis sufficient to practice under general supervision.