Master of Education in Teaching and Learning

Program Student Learning Outcomes

Students graduating with a Master of Education in Teaching and Learning will be able to:

• Demonstrate advanced content and pedagogical knowledge for teaching.
• Use research to inform professional practice.
• Explain the relationship between education and social justice.
• Demonstrate leadership skills for the professional context.
• Translate educational theories into culturally responsive practice.