

Residence Life Animal Policy

The Departments of Residence Life within the University of Alaska System have established a common set of policies and guidelines for students living on our various campuses regarding the presence and housing of animals within our communities and buildings. This policy works in tandem with other policies in place for service animals, assistance animals and pets. The provisions in this policy were established to promote the safety, health, comfort and wellness of the animals as well as the students who call our community home. It is the responsibility of each resident to ensure their guests also comply with this policy. Further, these provisions attempt to protect and maintain the grounds and facilities on our beautiful residential campus. Please follow the proceeding link to review this policy:

Residence Life Animal Policy (<https://www.uaa.alaska.edu/residence-life/current-residents/residence-life-animal-policy.cshtml/>)

In addition, UAA has established a set of expectations specific to the Anchorage campus that supplement the provisions in the Residence Life Animal Policy. Please follow the proceeding link to review this supplemental policy:

UAA Residence Life Animal Handler Expectations (<https://www.uaa.alaska.edu/residence-life/current-residents/expectations-for-animal-handlers.cshtml/>)