Department of Languages

Studying languages prepares a student to live and work in an increasingly interdependent world in which contact with other cultures is frequent and the appreciation and respect for linguistic and cultural diversity is important. The Department of Languages offers a bachelor of arts degree, a minor in a single language, and courses that fulfill the GER requirements.

The Bachelor of Arts (BA) in Languages affords students the option of concentrating on one emphasis language (Option I), or of studying an emphasis language in combination with a second language (Option II). These options and the student’s selection of courses from outside the department to fulfill major requirements, reflect the diverse context in which students live and work, and recognize the inherently multidisciplinary nature of language study. This flexibility also allows students to select a program most suited to their educational and career goals.

The Department of Languages offers French, German, Japanese, and Spanish as emphasis languages, with additional lower-division courses in American Sign Language (ASL), and Russian. First-year courses begin building the foundations of language learning: listening, speaking, reading, and writing. Since language can only be understood within a cultural context, studying culture is included from the first semester. In courses beyond the first year, students expand and refine their language skills and further develop their cultural knowledge.

As an integral part of their education, the department recommends that all students majoring in languages study abroad in a country of their target language(s). UAA offers a variety of opportunities for study abroad. For a full description of study abroad opportunities through UAA, students should refer to the Education Abroad Coordinator in the Office of International and Intercultural Affairs. Students wishing to apply study abroad credit toward a languages degree must petition to satisfy major and/or minor requirements with study abroad experience. The department may require post-program examinations. The department highly recommends that students discuss their study abroad plans with their academic advisor prior to participation.
