

Occupational Endorsement Certificate in Infant and Toddler Development

Students graduating with an Occupational Endorsement Certificate in Infant and toddler development will be able to:

- Create a healthy, respectful, supportive, and challenging learning environment based on knowledge of infant and toddler development.
- Create respectful, reciprocal relationships that support and empower families, and involve all families in their children's development and learning.
- Use systematic observations, documentation, and other effective assessment strategies in a responsible way, in partnership with families and other professionals, to positively influence infant and toddler's development and learning.
- Use ethical guidelines and other professional standards related to early childhood practice.
- Demonstrate knowledgeable, reflective, and critical perspectives on professional practice, making informed decisions that integrate knowledge from a variety of sources.