Associate of Applied Science in Computer Systems and Network Technology

Program Student Learning Outcomes

Upon program completion, computer systems and network technology graduates will be able to demonstrate:

• Competence in IT workplace service skills through customer service, troubleshooting and implementation of security
• An understanding of IT concepts and technical skills, installing and configuring operating systems, and using utility software
• Knowledge of computer hardware and peripherals
• Knowledge of network infrastructure, network workgroups, and domain administration.